SUBJECT.

Revision of the scheme of the Nyasa Civil Service Examination

QUESTION OF HOLDING THE MYSORE CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATION.

In forwarding recommendations for selection of Amildars for appointment as Assistant Commissioners, the Revenue Commissioner has× suggested that, in view of the difficulty experienced in finding competent officers in the Amildar clearly fit for promotion, the question of holding a competitive examination for recruitment as Probationary Assistant Commissioners may be considered. The following note is accordingly put up.

× Vide Extract put up: P.W.D

2. The Mysore Civil Service Rules contemplate the holding of a competitive examination once in two years (though this was not held on some occasions on account of paucity of vacancies etc.). The last examination was conducted in January 1928. The question of holding an examination about the end of 1929 or beginning of 1930 was considered, but it was thought desirable that before holding the examination the Scheme of the Examination itself should be simplified and the cost lessened. The question was accordingly referred to a select Committee and a revised scheme of examination recommended by the Committee was approved by Government in G.O. No.615/C.B. 184-29 dated 4th August 1931. The need for holding an examination under the revised scheme was then taken up, but it was found that in view of retrenchments that had been in the meantime effected there was not much scope for taking any probationers "in the near future." It was therefore decided not to hold any examination for some time. This was in August 1932.

The position in this respect seems, however, to have since considerably improved. The stagnation on account of retrenchments has been relieved and some of the officers who were appointed to act as Assistant Commissioners a year ago can now look forward to confirmation in permanent vacancies available.

As regards the scope for recruitment of more Probationary Assistant Commissioners, it is submitted that in case an examination be held about the beginning of 1936 and Probationary Assistant Commissioners are appointed (by competition and nomination) soon after, their turn for confirmation will fall due early in 1938. There are at present 5 permanent vacancies in the Civil Service Cadre and proposals for confirming acting officers in these vacancies are under consideration separately. Apart from these, it is seen from the statement put up that some 16 (or more) vacancies may become available by 31st March 1938. Two of these vacancies have to be reserved for the confirmation of Messrs. Humayun Mirza and E. da Costa who are expected to complete 2 years of probation in June 1936 and September 1936 respectively. The remaining vacancies may be allocated - some for confirmation of acting

6) From the note put up by the Office, it will be seen that there are at present four vacancies among asst. crs. Proposals for filling them up are separately under consideration.

7) In addition to these vacancies, about 16 are likely to arise by about April 1938. There is thus ample scope for having about two C.S. exns between now and April 1938. The recruitment may perhaps be 3 by competition, 2 by nomination and 3 by promotion.

8) If a August 1936 would probably be a suitable time for the first of these two exns.

9) The exn. itself would be on the simplified scheme sanctioned in August 1931. The cost is likely to be about Rs. 6000.

The matter will, if approved, be brought up at the next Council meeting.

those who obtain not less than 55 per cent of the aggregate marks in the first part.

21) After a careful examination of the scheme, it was unanimously agreed that the following changes might be made.

(compulsory subjects)

22) The first part may be composed of the following papers:-

	Maximum Marks.
1. Essay.	150
2. General knowledge including every-day science.	150
3. English - Current Topics (Prescribed books)	150
4. English - Literary. (Prescribed books) (i) Poetry. (ii) Prose.	150
5. Viva Voce.	150

33) In the minutes above, the recommendation approved appears to be that 4 papers (2 groups of 2 papers each) may be provided instead of 3 papers, under English only, and that the other languages (Kannada, Sanskrit & Persian) may continue to have only 3 papers. As every paper is to carry a maximum of ~~Rs 100~~ 100 marks, the 4 papers in English would carry a total of 400 marks, while the total in the other 3 languages would come to 300 marks. Perhaps the intention is that a candidate choosing one of the 3 languages (other than English) has to make up by taking 3 more papers in the other Arts subjects

Submitted to His Highness.

I beg to invite reference to my Submission Note dated 10th August 1932 in which it was reported that there was not much scope, at the time, for taking Probationers to the grade of Assistant Commissioners, in view of the retrenchments in establishments that had been effected some time previously.

2. The Revenue Commissioner has brought to notice the difficulty that is being experienced in finding from the Amildari service officers up to the mark and clearly fit for promotion, and suggested the holding of a competitive examination for the recruitment of Probationary Assistant Commissioners. On an examination of the vacancies that are likely to arise in the grade of Assistant Commissioners, it is found that by the end of December 1938, eighteen vacancies may be expected to occur. After making allowance for the confirmation of the two existing Probationers and for the promotion of eligible officers from the lower ranks, there is sufficient scope to recruit some Probationary Assistant Commissioners by open competition and by nomination.

3. In this connection, the question of further simplifying the scheme of the competitive examination for recruitment to the Civil Service was also examined in consultation with the Vice-Chancellor of the Mysore University and the final proposals in this behalf are embodied in the draft Notification put up herewith.

4. The question was considered at a meeting of the Council held on 16th January 1936 when it was resolved as follows:-

> "The revised scheme may be approved.
> An examination may be held in November 1936 and two candidates recruited by competition."

5. The above recommendations may be graciously approved.

No.615/C.B.184-29-9, dated 4th August 1931. According to this the examination is to be conducted in two parts, the examination in the Second part to be held some time after that in the First part and to be confined to those who obtain not less than 55 per cent of the aggregate marks in the first part.

After a careful examination of the scheme, it was unanimously agreed that the following changes might be made.

(Compulsory subjects)

The first part may be composed of the following papers:-

	Maximum Marks.
1. Essay.	150
2. General knowledge including every-day science.	150
3. English - Current Topics (Prescribed books)	150
4. English - Literary. (Prescribed books) (i) Poetry. (ii) Prose.	150
5. Viva Voce.	150
	750

(Optional subjects)

In the Second part the following items may be omitted from the list of subjects under B.Arts:-

(xiii) Jurisprudence.
(xiv) Constitutional Law.
(xv) Roman Law.

Each paper in this part to carry a maximum of 100 instead of 150 marks, and six papers carrying a total of 600 marks to be taken by each candidate.

In other respects there will be no change in respect of the second part.

Note- Dr. Metcalfe desired that a copy of this note may be sent to him to enable him to consult some Professors, before final approval is given.

Dear Mr. Anantaraman,

I enclose herewith a Note on the scheme for the further simplification of the syllabus of the Mysore Civil Service Examination.

This Note relates to ~~simplify~~ the scheme tentatively drawn up at the meeting held in the Chambers of the First Member of Council on the 5th of August.

With regard to the difficulty about English pointed out by the Professors, the proposed solution is my own. Mr. McAlpine agrees with this ; but I have not had time to refer it back to Mr. Rollo.

Yours sincerely,

C. Rommerscape.

Messrs. McAlpine and Rollo independently draw attention to the unequal position in which both pass and honours men in English would find themselves, compared with those offering other subjects. The honours graduate in any other subject can take four of his optional papers from his "major" subject and two from his "minor". The pass graduate can offer two papers in each of the optional subjects studied in his degree course. The provision of 3 papers in English does not suit either the Honours English graduate nor the pass graduate who has taken optional English as one of the subjects of his degree course.

This difficulty might be met by prescribing two groups in English of two papers each. The honours English graduate would take both groups (4 papers) : the pass graduate would take one group (2 papers). -- A similar arrangement for the same reasons should be made for Kannada, Sanskrit and Persian.

Mr. Mackintosh suggests that the maximum for Viva voce should be 50 marks. I do not agree.

Messrs. Rollo and Wadia suggest that it should be 100. I prefer the 150 of the scheme.

Messrs. Rollo and Wadia think that the viva voce should be held at the end of the complete examination. I do not agree. The viva voce is a general test and is appropriately placed along with the common subjects of examination.

The professors generally recommend that the scope of each paper should be settled in consultation with the Professor of that subject. I think that this should be done.

Messrs. Rollo, Mackintosh and Wadia consider that " Administration " should be retained in Part I.- I am not convinced of the need for its retention.

P.S.- Since writing the above I have heard from Prof. Venkatesachar that he considers that the minimum of 55% in the first Part of the examination might be too high to be fair to science candidates. - I am not disposed to agree with this view: but it might be possible to enquire into the performance at previous examinations of science candidates in the subjects represented in Group E Part I. - The inclusion of 'every-day science' should tend to equalize the chances of the science candidates as compared with those of the arts men, though the latter may have some advantage in the literary English.

Dear Sir,

I am desired to acknowledge the receipt of your D.O. letter dated 18th September 1935, enclosing a note on the scheme for the further simplification of the syllabus of the Mysore Civil Service Examination. In the circumstances stated, Government accept the recommendation made by you that two groups of two papers each may be prescribed in English. It is, however, considered not quite necessary to extend a similar arrangement in respect of Kannada, Sanskrit and Persian. I am to request you to kindly favour Government with detailed proposals indicating clearly the scope of each group and paper in English.

For approval.

With reference to the view of Professor Venkatesachar that the minimum of 55 per cent in the First Part of the Examination might be too high to be fair to Science candidates, I am to state that Government would have no objection to slightly modify this so as to permit candidates who get 50 per cent in the compulsory subjects to sit for the optional subjects. Your opinion on this proposal also requested.

Dear Mr. Ramanathan,

In reply to your Office D.O. letter of the 1st October 1935 and your reminder of the 28th November 1935 regarding the proposals for a revised scheme of examination for the Mysore Civil Service competition.

I enclose a note from Professor McAlpine covering the whole subject of the examination in English comprehensively

It will be remembered that Optional English is to be divided into two Groups each of two papers. It will be open to canididates to offer both groups : and it is expected that men who have taken an honours degree in English will offer both groups. Group I will however be suitable, by itself, for men who have done the pass degree English (optional) attention is invited to Professor McAlpine's note on the character of the Compulsory paper which is proposed in the scheme under the title of English Literature. He considers that it should be a general paper in English, following the practice of the I.C.S. examination.

Professor McAlpine's suggestions appear to me to be quite sound : and may, I think, be adopted.

I shall be obliged if you will kindly return the enclosed pamphlet on the I.C.S. examination direct to Mr. McAlpine, as soon as possible, since it is the property of a prospective candidate. A copy should be obtained for the Secretariat Library.

Yours sincerely,

E. R. Mercalfe

A.V.Ramanathan, Esq., B.A.,
Chief Secretary to Government,

Note regarding the scope of the English papers in I.C.S. Examination

1) Compulsory

I am in favour of substituting for "English Literature" (poetry and prose) a paper entitled "English", and purely general in character. It should be on the same lines as the Compulsory English paper in the I.C.S. examination as held in India. I enclose a copy of the I.C.S. papers to show what I mean. The volume may kindly be returned as it belongs to a student who is working for the I.C.S. eeamination. A paper on these lines effectively prevents cramming, and in my opinion will sift the wheat from the chaff as no paper on prescribed texts ever can. If however "English Literature" is to be retained, "prescribed texts" should be substituted for " poetry and prose ", as the latter title would appear to exclude drama.

2) Optional

(a) Group I 2 papers on prescribed texts.

This group is intended mainly for such candidates as have taken Optional English as one of their subjects in the Pass B.A. or B.Sc. degree exam. As the papers in these degrees consist entirely of questions on set texts, the 2 papers in group I here must follow the same lines.

(b) Group II 2 papers

This group would not normally be attempted except by candidates who had taken the B.A.(Hons) degree in English Literature or had at least covered the ground for it. It should, I think, be of quite a different type from group I. I would suggest paper 1. History of the English Language

The scope of the paper is indicated by such books as the following : -

(1)	Bradley	The Making of English
(2)	Emerson	The History of the English Language
(3)	Jeaperson	Growth & Structure of the English Language
(4)	Armour	The Genesis of English

paper 2(a) The History of English Literature from 1560 to 1900

(b) The History & Principles of Criticism

The scope of section (a) will be the ground covered by any standard history of English Literature such as Saintsbury's "Short History of English Literature" that of section (b) a History of English Criticism by Saintsbury (Blackwood & Sons);Loci Critici by Saintsbury (Ginn & Co)

Financial Effect.

7. We desire to add that it has been suggested to us by one of the members of the Committee that the cost of the examination, even when reduced by the means indicated above, may still appear to Government to be far to high.

In formulating the foregoing scheme, we have been guided by two sets of considerations. On the one hand we have tried to preserve the correlation between the scheme of examination and the courses of study pursued at the University by the various candidates, inasmuch as the purpose of the examination is to select the best men turned out by the University. On the other hand, we have tried to reduce the number of papers to be set and valued and in other ways to lower the expense of conducting the examination.

If it should be considered that a still much less costly scheme should be devised, it may be necessary to consider the possibility of confining the competitive examination to a set of compulsory papers, all to be taken by every candidate. It has been suggested that the place hitherto held by the "optional" portion of the examination might be taken by an oral examination for each candidate in his own special subject or subjects. This proposal does not commend itself to the whole of the Committee for the reason that the Boards of Examiners in the several special subjects would be even less likely, by mere oral examination, to preserve an equality of valuation as between different subjects than they are under the scheme of examination by set papers: and that moreover, in oral examinations other qualities in a candidate than the degree of his mastery of his subject and his real intelligence are liable to affect his performance.

Another suggestion has been put forward that the optional part of the examination might be dispensed with entirely, the examination being confined to the set of compulsory papers; but that only holders of either a first or a second class university degree should be admitted to the competition. This would ensure the final selection for the Civil Service of men possessing a competent knowledge of a special subject or group of subjects, and definitely above the average intellectually. It is not suggested that any difference should be made between first and second class graduates on account of their class: and it is not suggested that a third class honours or a third class Master's degree should qualify for admission. Whatever might be the degree course taken by an aspirant, whether pass or honours or post graduate, it should be a condition that he has passed higher than the lowest class.

8. It is not claimed that either of these very drastic changes in the form of the competition is to be considered as comparable with the amended scheme set forth in the body of this report in point of fairness to the individual candidates. It would be very difficult to prescribe a set of compulsory papers to be taken by all candidates which would give equal opportunities to men who had studied such varying subjects as are permitted as degrees

By Order,
A. V. RAMANATHAN,
Chief Secretary to Government.

No. 1706—C.B.112-35-1, dated 31st January 1936.

It has been found necessary to make a few alterations in the Rules and Curricula of the Mysore Civil Service Examination that were issued with Government Order No. 615—C. B. 184-29-9, dated 3rd—4th August 1931. The scheme as modified and approved by Government is published below for general information.

The Civil Service Examination will be held in two parts, the compulsory subjects comprising the first part and the optional subjects comprising the second part.

2. The question papers will be set only in the compulsory subjects to begin with.

3. Only those who obtain not less than 50 per cent of the aggregate marks in the first part will be allowed to proceed to the examination in the second part.

4. The examination in the second part will be held some time after the examination in the first part so that it may be possible to value the answer papers in the first part and to arrange for such of the question papers in the second part as may be required for the candidates who pass in the first part being set.

5. The maximum marks will be 750 for the first part and 600 for the second part.

6. The first part will be composed of the following papers :—

		Maximum Marks.
(1)	Essay	150
(2)	General knowledge including everyday Science	150
(3)	English—Current Topics (Prescribed books)	150
(4)	English Literature	150
(5)	Viva Voce	150

To

The Chief Secretary to the Government of Mysore,

B A N G A L O R E.

Respected Sir,

I beg your kind leave to place before the Government of His Highness the Maharaja of Mysore for their consideration the following representation on behalf of myself and other Law graduates and Law students of the State:-

It is reported in the newspapers that the Mysore - Civil Service Examination will be resumed from this year. The scheme of the said examination in previous years did - not contain ' Law ' as one of the optional subjects. It is my humble submission that the Government may be pleased to include 'Law' as one of the optional subjects in the examinations hereafter just like History, Economics - Philosophy and Science etc., for the following reasons ' interalia'.

Now there are large number of graduates in the state who are Law graduates or who have passed the local law examinations and who having a particular aptitude for that subject can show their merit in a competitive examination.

The M.C.S. examination, not having been so far an yearly event a large number of students after their graduation proceed to study Law and will have lost touch with their optional subjects in the College. They will be at a great dis-advantage in a competitive examination to be able to show their merit in the subjects which they had studied for their graduation. This is ' afortiori ' so as regards those who are otherwise qualified for the first M.C.S. examination after its revival.

Apart from the convenience of the candidates themselves

themselves ' Law ' is compartively a more useful subject for the purpose for which the examination is held i.e., to select competent members for the Civil Service. The scheme of the I.C.S. examination includes Law as one of the optional groups of subjects for that examination. The following is an extract from the Report of the British Indian Civil Justice, Committee 1924-25 emphasising the importance of legal knowledge for the Civil Service:-

" The necessity for an adequate legal equipment for officers of the Civil Service was emphasized by the Government of India in paragraph ~~i.e.~~ 4 of their despatch No. 16 dated 4th July 1907 in the following words:-

" We would preface our remarks by pointing out that in every branch of the duties on which an Indian Civilian is employed a knowledge of Law is necessary. Law is the basis of our whole system of administration. Not only as a Magistrate or as a Judge, but also as a Revenue Officer the Civilian deals with a system of codified law; he must be acquainted with the procedure of Civil Justice and must be prepared to meet the questions raised by skilled legal practitioners '. As an Executive Officer he must be able to apply enactments to facts, must be expert in the law of contracts, must be competent to conduct executive investigations in accordance with legal methods; and not infrequently he requires sufficient legal skill to draft rule that will have the force of law. Not only his conclusions, but the methods and procedure by which he arrives at them are open to the light of criticism and must be legally valid. Most important of all, he must know the legal limitations of the extensive power that are entrusted to them.

I therefore, humblv appeal to the Government, that they may be pleased to include Law as one of the optional subjects for the ensuing M.C.S. examination.

I beg to remain

Respected Sir,

Your most obedient servant,

Bangalore,

Dated 3 -2-1936.
